FRESNO STATE

Master of Fine Arts Program
in Creative Writing

The Soul Vang Prize for Poetry will be awarded annually by the Creative Writing Program in honor of poet and educator Soul Choj Vang, who earned his Master of Fine Arts degree and a Secondary Teaching Credential from Fresno State in 1999.

One $100 award will be given annually to a student at any level. The recipient will be selected on the basis of an excellent piece of poetry that demonstrates significant interest in writing about the Hmong or Asian American cultural or historical experience.

Vang is the author of Song of the Cluster Bomblet, forthcoming from Blue Oak Press, and To Live Here, winner of the 2014 Imaginary Friend Press Poetry Prize and the first full-length collection of poetry published by a Hmong American. He is also co-editor of How Do I Begin?: A Hmong American Literary Anthology (Heyday, 2011).

Vang was born in Laos to Nouchue Vang (father) and Ying Yang Vang (mother), and came to the United States as a refugee child. He joined the United States Army and served in Giessen, Germany and El Paso, Texas. After the army, he returned to college at Fresno State.

An editorial member of the Hmong American Writers' Circle (HAWC), Soul is passionate about fostering the next generation of Hmong American writers. His endowed scholarships and poetry prize are in honor of his parents, with the goal to nurture Hmong American writing.
